Non-Arabic Correspondence

Worldwide Library Correspondence: This is a project aimed at giving a selection of books about Islam in the English Language as gifts to universities and public libraries throughout the world. The package includes a publication that explains what Islam is all about, another clarifies the difference between the Shiites and the Muslims and the last one being an interpretation of the meaning of the Noble Qur'an. More than 5,000 libraries throughout the United States, Canada, and England had received these packages so far.

Worldwide Correspondence: This is correspondence sent in a number of languages to individuals throughout the world in response to letters sent to us through the mail, periodicals or private libraries. It is classified as follows:

To Muslims: This consists of a pocket-sized translations of the meanings of the Noble Qur'an, selected booklets from our collection on 'Aqeedah (Islamic beliefs), Salaah (Prayer), obligation of adhering to the Sunnah, and a warning against religious innovation and heresy (bid'ah) as well as that of any other publications that the Foundation may have.

To Non-Muslims: This contains packages giving a clear and true picture of Islam to non-Muslims apart from giving them an invitation to it.

Periodic Shipments: These are packages weighing around 50 kilograms each shipped by air to Islamic associations and organizations, research centers, mosques, schools and such other institutions throughout the world. They contain the most important books and booklets printed by our committee.

Book Printing and Publishing: A variety of more than 6,000,000 booklets on different fields of Islam had been printed, including important source books in addition to the Scholars' Library and Islamic Library Collection.

Seasonal work: Includes 1,000,000 pamphlets on the Islamic position against Sorcery and Magic, sexual deviance, as well as the rules of fasting and the ways of the early Muslims during Ramadhaan and at other times. These are distributed on specific occasions.

Pilgrimage (Hajj) Project: A Project which started in 1413 A.H. until the next five years where over 3,000,000 books have already been distributed to Pilgrims as gifts. All of these only by the Grace of Allah, the Most High and by His favor.
